Young Woman Found Dead.

Train Crew Discovers Body Lying on Railway Trestle

Wednesday noon of last week the news came to LaGrange that the lifeless body of Miss Lucille Saunders, aged about eighteen years, had been found near the Sap railway trestle a short distance from West Point. From what we have been able to learn, the supposition that she fell from the passenger train has been abandoned, and that Miss Saunders undoubtedly met with foul play.

From the Smithville Times, whose editors secured the information from relatives of the unfortunate young woman living there, we have the following: "Miss Saunders was returning from Hallettsville where she had gone to see about her school and was returning home. She had bought a ticket to West Point where presumably she got off to walk along the right of way to a short route home, between West Point and Winchester. Her lifeless body found by a train crew near the railway trestle that spans the Colorado river between the two towns, and was brought by them to Winchester where it was turned over to citizens who immediately notified Mr. Saunders. Authentic reports reaching the Times office Wednesday about noon are in the effect that the unfortunate girl's throat was severed and that a leg was broken."

With the foregoing given as authentic, it is apparent that the young woman was murdered. [Notwithstanding] the fact that the country thereabouts has been thoroughly searched nothing further has developed and no arrests have been made. Miss Lucille was the daughter of Edward Saunders who lived near Winchester.- LaGrangeJournal.
